GaLe one shot! First story

*Hey! So.. This is my first story.. Eek! Sorry it's only short but it's a start! I plan to start writing longer stories in the future! Anyways! Let's get to it eh? ****

It was an average day in the Fairy Tail guild hall, slumped against the bar sat a very grumpy iron dragon slayer. Gajeel was not in a good mood. That damn flame brain was pissing him off again.. and on top of that Lily had kept him up all night.. damn cat.. God knows how long he'd been sat there sulking, however, he was quickly brought back to reality when he sent that familiar smell again.. the smell of aged books. It was times like this that he hated his dragon senses, he couldn't get that smell out of his head. Her smell.. Levy's smell..

"Hey Gajeel!" Levy chirped, popping up out of nowhere, grinning happily.. Hell.. He adored that smile.. Just seeing it made him happy.

"What's up shrimp?" God he loved the look that came over her face when he called her that

"Hey! You know I hate it when you call me that!" she pushed him, before crossing her arms and turning to walk away, however she was stopped by a firm hand on her shoulder.

"Nope. We're going to pick a mission. Come on shrimp" this was greeted with a soft groan from her.

"Do we have to..?" she groaned.. Did she not want to go on a mission with him? Had he upset her? Too bad.

"Yes. No arguing." Levy squealed as she was thrown over Gajeel's shoulder, she began hitting him on the back as he made his way over to the request board, ripped off a request and walked out, Levy still slung over his shoulder. He had an exciting few days planned, him and Levy alone.. Maybe enough time to win her heart? He'd have to wait and see.

Thank you for reading! I know it's not exactly one of the best stories on here, but it's my first one! Please rate and review so I know what to improve on! Thank you again!
